Safe Walking Routes

- Review Safe Walking Routes
 - Jennifer Richins requested a crosswalk near Sparrowtail Road. It was submitted in last year's safe walking routes to the city. The city stated that a crosswalk can be added across Sparrowtail, but not across 7000 S.
 - It was discussed that a crosswalk across 7000 S. would back up traffic too much and would not be worth it to push for a crosswalk there.
 - Suggestions from last year's safe walking routes that were taken care of:

- The curbs in front of the school were painted red to stop cars from blocking street views
 - Flashing lights were added to stop signs at the 4-way stop on 7000 S. and Grizzly Way
 - A tree was trimmed that was obscuring stop sign views at 7000 S. and Orion Hill Rd.
 - No parking signs were put up in front of residential homes (stating during school hours) and in front of the school
- There is a concern for the safety of students and parents who walk across 7000 S. in front of the school as there is no crosswalk or crossing guard to help with the traffic.
- Suggestions to help with the safety of students and parents:
 - Have traffic safety education do a presentation with the kids
 - Nathan Price can do a Friday broadcast about it
 - Ask D.A.R.E. officer/police to help patrol and enforce to not cross the road
 - Crossing guards to stand at the end of Sparrowtail directing to go to either crosswalk (Orion Hill Rd and Grizzly Way)
 - Tina Susuico will continue to talk to the city about what to do
- Next safe walking routes report will need to be submitted in January
- Nothing to add to the report at this time.
